THRIFTY HARRISON

GOES INTO A BIG LAND BOOMING SCHEME

WITH ALL HIS FEMALE RELATIVES. Scandalous Use of Official Station for the Parpose of Creating Fictitious Values for Old Field Land.

WASHINGTON, July 18 .- [Special.]-Here's juicy scandal.

The president, Mrs. Harrison and all the ther occupants of the white house have gone into a scheme to use their positions to beem burban property, and thereby earn an honest

For the large sum of $1 Mrs. Harrison yesfor the large sum of 21 worth of lots in the terday purchased $21,783 worth of lots in the sabarb, Glen Echo, about three miles from the white house. Mrs. Harrison's father, John W. Scott, also purchased over $20,000 worth of lots. A large number of lots were also pur-chased by Private Secretary Lige Halford; Mrs. Mary Dimmick Scott, the presi-dent's sister-in-law; Mrs. Mary Harrison McKee, the president's daughter; Harrison, Crook and S. N. Sheets, clerks at the white house, and Miss Sanger, the presilent's typewriter.

The latter purchased $5,209 worth. It is wed here that the typewriter is acting for either the president or some other member of his family. Unless she is being used as a reen, her position as a typewriter must be a very lucrative one.

This wholesale purchase right at this time has created very much of a surprise here, in the face of the fact that Mrs. Harrison, only a few weeks ago, came out in an interview, in which she said that the president had very decided scruples against purchasing property and using his position to enhance its value. Evidently there were no scruples on the part of other members of the family, for the transaction had been completed and the deeds recorded when Mrs. Harrison made the statement.

The deeds are recorded at Rockville, Md., the county seat of Montgomery county, and about twelve miles from the city. If the president does not use his position for speculating purposes, Mrs. Harrison as a speculator is a decided success. Besides this property she has her Cape May cottage, and the chances are that when the little man leaves the white house he will be something like a millionaire. However, the wealth will be in the name of his wife. The little fellow is operating from behind the skirts of his wife, and what is more, he is allowing the other fellow to put up the money. Harrison has a pickup, so to speak, but it is the greatest scan-dal which has ever disgraced the white house. TURNING OUT THE DEMOCRATS.

The committee on elections today decided to unseat two more democrats.

This time they are Bullock, of Florida, and rson, of West Virginia. Bullock will have to go out to make room for Goodrich, a republican who makes a general charge of fraud in the election. Bullock had nearly 4,000 majority, but still he has to go. Alderson goes to make room for McGinnis

When the house disposes of these two cases and the two now pending, ten democrats will have been deliberately robbed of their seats simply to increase the republican majority. Elliott, of South Carolina, and Venable, of Virginia, will be turned out next week, and then cases of the two above named will come up, and they, too, will have to retire. The republicans started in at the opening of this congress with only eight majority. When these four cases are disposed of they will have twenty-eight.

THE TARIFF AMENDMENT. The amendment to the tariff bill offered this afternoon by Senator Pierce, of South Dakota, originated with President Harrison. He authorized its introduction, with the hope that it might prove an acceptable compromise upon which the Blaine and McKinley men could meet.

The amendment authorizes the president, at he expiration of one year, to restore the sugar luties with regard to any nation failing to enter into adequate reciprocal relations with the United States for the receipt of our agricultural products, and it also empowers the president to open and conduct treaty negotiations to this end. Blaine wants the duties for the purpose of using them as a club to force immediate reciprocal concessions. McKinley wants his bill to pass free sugar and all, without regard to whether, in the language of Blaine, it gives a market for a "single additional barrel of flour or pound of pork.' president's compromise "serves notice" on Cuba and other sugar producing countries for one year, and at the end of that time places the matter in the hands of Mr. Blaine.

New York, July 18.—Futures opened at three to four points decline, closing quiet and steady at a decline of eight points on July and two to four points on the other months from yesterday's closing prices. Liverpool reported a dull spot market with futures there losing on the early advance, causing our market to decline. There were telegraph and mail advices of light rains in various parts of the south, including Texas, which seemed to relieve apprehensions from idrought. Speculation was dull owing to the interruption of elegraphic communication by the fire in the Western Union building. The feature of the last half hour was exceptional weakness in July and august options which was hardly consistent with the dearer spot market. THE SUNDRY CIVIL BILL.

The Senate Disposes of About Half of It Yesterday.

Washington, July 18.—The resolution offered yesterday in the senate by Mr. Allison, making it in order, in the consideration of appropriation bills, to move to limit the debate on the amendments to five minutes for each senator, was presented.

ments to five militures for each senator, was presented.

Mr. Edmunds inquired whether the meaning of the resolution was to terminate the delate on amendments, not offered, as well as on amendments pending. The former practice had been, he believed, to be to provide for terminating the debate on known propositions, and so on and so on. He certainly was in favor of such a resolution as that, but if it meant to close debate on amendments not yet offered, that was quite another thing.

Mr. Allison—The resolution is an exact copy of resolutions that have been adopted by the senate on many occasions.

on many occasions.

Mr. Edmunds—Then it is all right.

Mr. Allison—I do not ask for its consideration this morning.

Mr. Allison—I do not ask for its consideration this morning.

The resolution was laid upon the table, subject to call hereafter.

Mr. Daves from the committee on Indian affairs, to which was referred the preedent's message vetting the bill to change the boundaries of the Uncompaghre Indian receivation, reported it tack without recommendation, and, at the same time reported a new bill, for the same purposes, but framed to meet the president's objection.

The question having been asked as to the disposition to be made of the veto message, the presiding officer (Mr. Ingalls) said that the constitution required that the question, whether the bill should pass, the objections of the president to the contrary notwithstanding, should be submitted to the senate. It was not necessary, however, that that question should be submitted at a particular time.

The bill and message were placed on the calendar.

mitted to the senate. It was not necessary, however, that that question should be submitted at a particular time.

The bill and message were placed on the calendar. Consideration of the sundry civil bill was resumed, the pending question being, as on yesterday, the amendment increasing from $200,000 to $200,000 the appropriation for the topographic survey, one-half of which sum shall be expended west of the one hundred and first meridian; and so much of the act of October 2, 1888, entitled: "An act, making an appropriation for the sundry civil expenses of the povernment for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1880, and for other surposes as provides for the selection and location of reservoirs and canals upon public lands and the reservation of irrigable lands, is hereby repealed; provided that lands located or selected shall remain segregated and reserved from entry or settlement until to herwise provided for by law."

After a long debate upon a line with those of the two or three preceding days, the amendment was agreed to.

O her amendments recommended by the committee on appropriations were agreed to, including the following: "Striking out the item of $720,000 for engraving maps, and the item of $720,000 for the irrigation survey; the item of $720,000 for engraving maps, and the item of $720,000 for engraving maps, and the item of $720,000 for the irrigation survey; the item of $720,000 for engraving maps, and the item of $720,000 for the irrigation survey. The bill was then laid saide, sixty-three pages having been disposed of out of a total of 114.

Mr. Allison gave notice that he would ask the senate to remain in session tomorrow until the bill would be completed.

Mr. Vance introduced a bill providing for the repeal of the tax of ten per cent

After a brief executive session, the senate at 6:10 adjourned till tomorrow at 11 a.m. THE UNLICENSED LIQUOR DEALERS. The House Takes Up the "Original Packnge" Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Mr. Hitt, of Illinois

Washington, July 18.—Mr. Hitt, of Illinois, asked the unanimous consent of the house for the immediate consideration of the jointresolution providing that nothing in the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill shall be construed to delay or interrupt the prompt transaction, publication and distribution of the reports of the proceedings of the international conference.

Mr. Rogers, of Arkansas, objected.

Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, for the committee on rules, reported a resolution providing that the house shall immediately proceed to the consideration of the "original package" bill, the previous question to be considered as ordered on Monday, after the reading of the journal, and that the house shall consider the bankruptcy bill, the previous question to be considered as ordered on Wednesday, after the reading of the journal.

Mr. Breckhiridge, of Kentucky, raised the question of consideration.

The house decided—yeas 115, nays 55—to consider the resolution. One hundred and twenty-four members were announced as paired on this yote.

Mr. McMillin, lof Tennessee, said that the order four members were announced as paired on this vote.

Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee, said that the order provided two days for the consideration of each of these important measures. Exception was made of the conference reports on appropriation bills. The conference report on the District of Columbia appropriation bill was now pending. Its consideration might consume three-quarters of the time set apart for the consideration of the original package and bankruptcy bills. The time was fixed for a final vote on these measures without regard to the status in which they were when that time arrived. He regard to the status in which they were when that time arrived. Ho believed that the house of representatives ought to be a house of representatives. It ought no longer to be a government of the house by the committee on rules, but ought to be a government of the house by the house itself. It was a method of proceeding to which he objected. The house was no longer a deliberative body. The only deliberative body which the people had was the senate of the United States. Measures of the importance of those mentioned in the resolutions should receive the deliberate consideration of the house.

At the suggestion of Mr. Adams, of Illinois, the resolution was modified so as to provide that appropriation bills shall not interfere with the consideration of the two bills, and the resolution was then adopted. The "original package" bill was then taken up. Mr. E. B. Taylor, in advocating the measure, said that never had such a blow been given to state sovereignty and state rights as had been given by the ascertainment that under the constitution of the United States a citizen of a foreign state might take into another state any property that was a subject of commerce and there sell it without the liability of the burden of taxation. He did not advocate the bill in the interest of any prohibition party or any prohibition sentiment, but because the best interests of the whole people demanded its passage. While he isfinitely preferred the house substitute, he feared that its adoption, would endanger legislation, and consequently he advised the adoption of the senate bill. Mr. Culberson, of Texas, argued against the constitutionality of the proposed legislation. For one, he was not willing to vote for a measure that made his state a mendicant, asking for the privilege of increasing police power that she had never delegated to congress and which was inherent in her. If the house substitue should became a law, it would be as well to strike from the constitution the clause giving congress the right to make commercial regulations. Commercial chaos would ensue. When this proposition became a law our great commercial supremacy would topple and tall. If the state of lowa-sould prohibit the importation of intoxicating liquors it could exclude tobacco, and it could go further than guarding the health and morals of its elizons; it could protect its own products against those of other states. It would be better to amend the constitution rather than to mangle it by these makeshites.

Mr. Adams, of Illinois, said that the unlicensed original package shop was the cause of all the present agitation. Everybody was agreed that t

A CRY FOR HELP

FROM THE ROOF OF A SEVEN STORY BUILDING

WHILE THE FLAMES WERE BELOW.

New York—Narrow Escape of Some of the Telegraphers.

New York, July 18 .- The Western Union Telegraph building caught fire at 7 o'clock this morning. The distributing room on the fifth floor, the operating room on the floor above and the restaurant on the seventh floor were completely destroyed, and seven lives were miraculously saved.

A few minutes before 7 o'clock this morning the operators began to arrive to go to work. About fifty men and young women had reached the operating room. A messenger boy, of the name of Matthews, saw a puff of smoke under a table in the distributing room on the floor below the operating room. He scarcely had time to investigate the cause, when the wooden table was in flames, and the fire spreading with lightning rapidity. He rusted up stairs to notify the new arrivals that the building was on fire. They were com-pelled to go through the distributing room to get down stairs.

A PANIC ENSUES.

A PANIC ENSUES.

A panic was the result of the messenger's information, and young women screamed, while men rushed pell unell down the stairs to escape the flames, which, in less than two misutes, had spread almost over the entire distributing room, burning un wires, instruments, and tables, as if spread almost over the entire distributing room, burning up wires, instruments and tables, as if they were so much tinder. The entire room, when the panic-stricken crowd passed through it, was filled with dense stiffing smoke. They fell over each other in their wild efforts to reach a place of safety. The messenger, and an operator by the name of Skidmore, were the only two persons who retained presence of mind enough to take in the awful situation. The boy rushed down stairs and out of the building and sent out an alarm, while Skidmore got down a fire extinguisher and endeavored to quench the flames. He saw it was impossible to be of any service, and to save timed ir ushed for the stairway before the fire should overtake him.

By this time the flames had reached the celling of the distributing room, and were eating their way through to the operating room, where the instruments that connect with wires that distribute the news throughout the country, were located.

SEVEN PERSONS ON THE ROOF.

SEVEN PERSONS ON THE ROOF.

In less time-than it takes to tell this, the entire loor was ablaze, and the flames were eating their way to the floor above, where the Western Union floor was ablaze, and the tames were eating their way to the floor above, where the Western Union company's restaurant was located.

Just about this time it flashed upon the minds of the frightened persons, who had escaped, that there were seven others on the restaurant floor who had not been warned of their danger. All exit had by this time been cut off by which these persons could escape, and they were not warned of their danger until the smoke rushed up the stairway, leading to the operating room, in volumes. There were four men and three women. Seeing escape cut off from every quarter, there was an awful panio. The young women were waiters in the restaurant, and the men were cooks and choremen. The women rushed around the restaurant sereaming and wringing their hands, but none of them fainted. One of the men finding it het there, with no possible means to escape downward, rushed for the scuttle hole in the roof. The trap door was pushed off and the prisoners climbed to the roof.

The streets surrounding the building were a perfect sea of faces of persons on their way to work. The flaines were shooting, and the building seemed to be crowned with fire. When the crowds on the street saw the men and women rush out on the roof a cry of horror went up, for it did not seem possible that they could be rescued.

"For GOD's SAKE SAYE US!"

The women on the roof screamed and wrung their hands, and the men yelled: "For God's sake do something to save us!" The first englue had arrived before the terrifying seeme was presented on the roof, and a volume of water was pouring into the burning building, which cracked and hissed and spluttered. A second alarm was sent out, followed immediately by a third. In a few minutes there were fourteen engines and hook and ladder companies and a water tower on the ground. Water poured in through the windows and ladder companies and a water tower on the ground. Water poured in through the windows and beat down upon the roof. But the flames were stubborn, in spite of the tons of water poured upon them. Water poured from the roof to the sidewalks, like cataracts, from all sides, and spray was dashed hundreds of feet in every direction. Still the human beings were helpless on the roof. They could be seen like spectres enveloped in smoke and mist. All of the houses surrounding the building were much lower than the roof of the Western Union, and for those on top of it it meant death. Two lines of hose were ran up through the building in Dey street, and two heavy streams played on the rear of the building, from which the flames and smoke were pouring as furiously as from the front.

Still no affort had been made to save the terrified men and women on the roof.

It now looked as if the seven could be saved only by a miracle. A long ladder was rushed and ladder companies and a water tower on the only by a miracle. A long ladder was rushed upon the roof of 8 Dey street and placed against the rear of the burning building. It did not reach within fifty feet of the roof of the big telegraph building! Undannted, however, two fremen scaled the ladder. Leaving it at the top they threw a rope to the roof. It was caught and tied by the brave girls who seemed never to lose their nerve. The two fremen pulled themselves up hand novel hand not the they received the translation.

their nerve. The two firemen pulled themselves up hand over hand until they reached the top.

Amid cheers from the thousands below they let the seven down to places of safety. It was accomplished just in time, for the flames burst up through the cornice and soon enveloped the roof. The tower of the building was caught up by the flames. The tons upon tons of water, however, began to have a telling effect. It was a beautiful and at the same time a terrifying sight to see the fire shoot out from the windows around the entire building, fully fifty feet, and blown back like great fiery tongues to lick the roof of the building. It was not long, though, before they grew smaller, until finally they died away altogether and left the smoky and charred bricks where the window frames had been.

THE BULLDING RUINED.

THE BUILDING RUINED. The entire upper part of the building was gutted and every instrument and wire rendered useless. How the fire originated no one seems to know

Had the fire broken out an hour later the loss of life would have been enormous. Fully seven hundred girls and men are employed on these two aundred griss and men are employed on these two ficors.

The offices of the Associated Press suffered rather more than any of the others in the great building. The floors were flooded with water to the depth of a foot or more, and the destruction, which was so well started by the fire, was absolutely completed by the water.

When the day force arrived, shortly before so clock, it was but too evident that the usefulness of the great building was at an end for the present. The ruin of the operating room rendered every Western Union wire on Manhattan island useless, so the Associated Press opened head-quarters in Jersey City, every facility being afforded them by the officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and before the fire was under control the various circuits of the Associated Press were in operation.

No exact figures can yet be given in regard to the loss, but it is thought it will reach $150,000, with no insurance.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BUILDING.

The building of the Western Union Telegraph company has been for a score or more of years one of the great and imposing landmarks of lower Broadway. It fronts on Broadway facing the east and occupied half a block on Dey street. On the ground floor are the receiving offices of the company, together with the offices of the American District Messenger company, with entrances on Broadway and Dey streets. The building runs up eight lofty stories, which are surmounted by a cupola. Running from the cupola is a staff on which hangs the time ball, which drops at the hour of noon and tells the standard time.

The building is filled with offices on the five lower floors which are occupied by some of the greatest railroad magnates in the world. The vast system of the Pacific railroads is operated through instructions given from the Western Union building, and there are private offices of Jay Gould, Sidney Dillon, Dr. Nor-

Another Account.

Reliable particulars as to the fire are now obtainable. James Larrissey, fireman, who was on duty in the building, was the first to discover the fire. About the same time, Mr. Tobin, night chief, noticed the odor of burning rubber, and on looking into the wire shaft leading from the battery room to the operating room, sawsmoke very distinctly. This was five minutes before 7 o'clock. Two watchmen were supposed to be on duty, but no alarm was given by them. When Mr. Tobin discovered the smoke in the shaft and descended to the battery room he was surprised at the great headway the fire had aiready made. The flames followed the wireswhich, being covered with rubber, oil and parafine, were very inflammable—to the room behind the great switch board and soon all the woodwork was burning. The fire leaped from table to table and to the window and door casings, and all efforts of the men on duty to suppress the burning by the appliances at hand were unavailing. Firemen were promptly on hand and took possession of the building. The day force of operators were reporting for duty, but found it necessary to retire. Five female operators were led out of the building by firemen.

THE LOSS IS HEAVY.

All above the sixth floor is destroyed. Carpets, papers, etc., on the fifth and other floors below are soaked with water. The battery and storage rooms occupied the sixth floor. The operating room and gallery devoted to the use of the Gold and Stock commany occupied the entire seventh room and gallery devoted to the use of the Gold and Stock company occupied the entire seventh floor, and the Associated Press and a part of the bookkeeping the entire eighth floor.

On the ninth floor were the Western Union files. The lors of the telegraph company is very large, and it will require a long time to replace the material. The large switchboard in the operating room alone cost $26,000.

The Associated Press loses instruments, typewriters, furniture and all of its books, papers and records, dating from 1845, and a valuable reference library. This loses is irreparable. All of the material for the history of the growth of the press in America contained in the letter books and files is destroyed, and can never be replaced. The money value is estimated at $15,000. There is no insurance.

money value is estimated at $15,000. There is no insurance.

William Henry Smith is personally a heavy loser by the destruction of rare books and papers, many of which cannot be duplicated. Among those were hundreds of rare pamphlets collected by Mr. Stetens in Europe, which Mr. Smith supposed were secure in this fireproof building.

Extensive correspondence of great value was also consumed. The telegraph company has divided its operating force among the sub-offices at Twenty third street, Jersey City, Brooklyn and Weehawken, from which business will be done temporarily. Meanwhile quarters are being prepared at the old Baltimore and Ohio office, at No. 415 Broadthe old Baltimore and Ohio office, at No. 415 Broadway. The Associated Press is at the Pennsylvania depot, Jersey City. After tomorrow it will be at No. 415 Broadway. The United Press has courte-No. 415 Broadway. The United Press has courte-ously tendered its facilities during the break. General Eckert, vice president of the Western Union, is of the opinion that the loss of that company will not much exceed $100,000. He also believes they will be able to employ considerable force in the main hallways in a day or two. Al-ready new switchboards are on the way from Phil-adelnina, and all that energy and money can do to quickly restore the service for the public will be done.

BROKERS WITHOUT BUSINESS.

By the fire the commercial exchanges are completely cut off from all of their telegraphic conpletely cut off from all of their telegraphic connections. The cetton, coffee, and produce exchanges depend on the Western Union company to distribute their quotations over the tickers. All the transmitting machines, by which the lines were worked, were destroyed. This caused a complete suspension of the tickers' service, and brought business almost to a standstill in the cotton, onfe and produce exchanges. In addition to this, all outside cities which are reached exclusively by New York wires were cut off, and public grain and cotton cables were also lost through the causing off of the wires.

The supervision of telegraphic facilities had a worse effect thanks blizzard. For some time the only business transacted consisted of arbitrage dealings with Boston. Chicago and Philadelphia and the execution of orders by houses having private wire connection with the east, south and west. Today, the operators working those wires were idle, and the brokers had no interest in the market.

THE FIRE DISCOVERED. The first man to discover the fire was Operator A. M. Lewis. He had just fluished sending a message and looked up at the big clock for the time to mark it. It was just 7 o'lock and as he wrote the figures on the back of the message, there came to his nose a smell of rubber burning. there came to his nose a smell of ruover burning. There was no mistaking that peculiar odor and as he looked up, never dreaming what was to follow, he saw a thin and almost transparent film of smoke come bursting and curing from the network of distributing rings.

Night Manager Tobin, sitting over at his desk at the other side, had also seen the vapor tim wafted upward, and as Mr. Lewis approached from one side he came up from the other.

But before the place was reached more smoke came up. It meant fre. Mr. Tobin is a quick-witted man, and besides he has had a like experience, so he cried out: "There's fire," and they jumped for the wall where the hand grenades hung. It don't take a minute for thirty men to jumped for the wall where the hand grenades hung. It don't take a minute for thirty men to get to their feet and when they looked they saw be sides the smoke, which by this time had increased to a solid black volume, pregnant with a sickening, suifocating smell, javelins of idame, which pointed straight up and came higher and higher each second. They all began to pull down the hand grenades and throw them down the hole where the flames were. The contents splashed out when the glass vessels broke, and the liquid sputtered a little as it met the fire. That was about all the visible effect. Hand grenades could not fight a fire like this.

Mr. Tobin called to a boy who was nearest him—he was Warty Doyle, a messenger. "Go down stairs as fast as your legs will let you," he said, "and send out an alarm," and the fittle fellow ran with a white face to the stairway in the northwest corner of the room and stumbled down the iron stairs at a pace he had never known before. He was only a telegraph messenger, but his speed down stairs was remarkable.

"Fire in the operating room!" yelled Warty, as he flew along and left the open-mouthed janitor darkies stairing at his retreating figure, as if they did not quite comprehend what it all meant.

TURNING IN THE ALARM.

As soon as he reached the street, he ran for the fire alarm box on the corner. He knew the hig brass handle had to be turned, so he reached up and, turning it, pulled the door open. Then he gave the hook inside a jerk, and the bells in all the engine houses rang out the number.

As soon as the boy had started down stairs the operators unrolled the big hose wheel, which is kept at the south side of the floor, always ready for an emergency of this kind. They unrolled the hose and fir. Tobin turned the water on. It was a pretty good stream. But the only effect it seemed to have was to make the fire shoot up higher, and it was noticed that smoke came rolling out of the big hole in greater volumes than before.

THE BRAVE WOMEN.

THE BRAVE WOMEN.

Those were certainly brave men, and Miss Emma Anderson, Miss Foley and Mrs. Adams, who are among the early arrivals, stood right there, half choking with the suffocating smoke, and encouraged them as well as they could. These operators worked the hose until the smoke became so thick that they could not see where the fire was. It began to assume the proportions of a big black blanket, which nearly filled the room. The women never lost their heads. They kept—as cool as sesteran firemen and the men worked like beavers. It was evident that they did not know what was going on down in the battery room below them. If they could have obtained one glimpse of the furnace that was burning under their very feet, they would have fled in a state of panic.

CROWDING THE ELEVATORS.

they would have fied in a state of panic.

CROWDING THE MLEVATORS.

The elevator men had brought the elevators up to the top floor, and the three women—Miss Anderson, Miss Foley and Mrs. Adams—went into the cars with some of the men. The hose had been dropped by this time with the nozzle pointing in the direction of the distributing ring box. As fast as the elevator cars could take them, the men crowded in. They began to realize by this time that the fire was going to be a much more serious affair than was at first thought. The smoke was coming through the cracks of the floor, and it was becoming pretty hot to stand on. When the last few men crowded fint the last car, they were just a little frightened. As they passed the floor below, a hot wave rolled over them, and as the car proceeded down, fire brands fell upon them and burned their clothing.

HON. JOHN P. BUCHANAN.

oon Mr. Buchanan received only 660 votes but before the announcement of the ballot was nade, Hon. John M. Taylor appeared in the hall, and withdrew his own name from the contest, saying that he was unwilling to longer delay a nomination.

On the twenty-fourth ballot, Buchanas received 789, Patterson 448 and Baxter 360. The twenty-fifth ballot was taken amid much excitement and resulted: Buchanan 801, Patterson 433, Baxter 370.

THE NOMINATION MADE.

By the time the twenty-fifth ballot was conided, it was seen that Buchanan had a majority of the votes, and one county after another changed to Buchanan.

General Jackson withdrew Jere Baxter's name and cast eighty-six votes for Buchanan. Thomas Jackson of Shelby county followed immediately with the withdrawal of Josiah Patterson, and moved that Mr. Buchanan be nominated by acclamation.

This motion was carried amidst the greatest applanse.

THEY ALL APPEAR. Mr. Buchanan was sent for, and in an elouent address accepted the nomination.

Hon. Jere Baxter and Josiah Patterson also spoke, thanking their friends for their support and accepting defeat gracefully.

TILLMAN AND HUGHSON

Face Each Other, and a Riot Almost Ensues.
CHARLESTON, S. C., July 18.—[Special.]—The colitical meeting at Marion yesterday came nearest yet to bloodshed.

Tillman, the alliance candidate, in the course of his speech, brought it on. He has been denouncing the Charleston New and Courier at all of the campaign meetings, his favorite expression being that "lying rotten

On this occasion he added: "If any of you take it, just look at this meeting today, and read the report of it in that sheet."

At this, Shirley C. Hughson, who was reporting the meeting for the News and Courier, rose, and going up to Tillman said:

"Captain Tillman, if you mean to say, sir, that I I have misrepresented you, you are an infernal liar and the truth is not in you."

The two men were within five feet of each other, and the eyes of both sparkled with anger and resentment. Captain Tillman turned around and faced the newspaper man, making some remark which was drowned by the noise. They stood glaring at each other for a moment, and in the meantime the crowd began to sway with excitement. A chorus of voices said:

"Put him off the stand; put him off the stand." There was a wild rush made for the platform. The straightout democrats, however, crowded around-Hughson and kept the enraged Tillmanites at bay. A score or more of these crawled on the stage with open knives and other weapons of offense. Again and again the cry rang out:

"Put him off, put him off, put him off." In obedience to the command, three or four policemen with drawn clubs climbed on the banisters of the platform and started towards. Mr. Hughson, in the meantime, was completely surrounded by his friends, and the policemen were forced back to the ground. The platform literally trembled under the weight and strain, and every moment threatened a hand to hand struggle between the two factions.

At the same meeting Tillman accused J. W. Barnwell and Judge Haskell, two of the leaders of the straightout democracy, of having threatened to assassinate him, and it is not improbable that more trouble will grow out of this.

M. Logan and Messrs. James B. Pace, E. D. Christian and James H. Dooley are thereby much the richer.

About two years ago these gentlemen took stock in a construction company, operating in Washington Territory, and there was a scheme to build a road from Scattle to Spokane Falls, a distance of about 350 miles. But little was done until last summer, when a syndicate was formed to push the work of the Seattle and Eastern Construction company. This company completed one hundred and forty miles of the Seattle Lake Shore and Eastern railroad, and is building eighty-four miles up to Mission, on the International line, where it will connect with the Canadian Pacific. The Northern Pacific needed this Seattle, Lake Shore and Eastern badly, and the construction syndicate let them have it. Thirty thousand shares of the stock of the Seattle, Lake Shore and Eastern Railroad company were sold to the Oregon Transcontinental company for the Northern Pacific, and the interest of the bonds. The construction company will complete the eighty-four miles now under contract. Then Pace, Christian and Dooley were equally interested, and it is understood that the profit which they divide is $600,000. General T. M. Logan was interested in the enterprise with New York parties, and it is understood that he cleared between three and four hundred thousand.

The Funeral of Mr. Bloodworth.
GRIFFIN, Ga., July 18.—[Special.]—The funeral of Mr. S. W. Bloodworth at the Baptist church this afternoon was largely attended. Rev. F. M. Daniel delivered a very impressive funeral sermon on the life and work of this extraordinary old gentleman, and his allusion to his Christian graces were pathetic and touching indeed. The pallbearers were composed of his eight sons, the eldest of whom is sixty-three years of age. Such an occurrence had never been witnessed before and excited a good deal of interest.

THE POOR BUSINESS

In Which the Opponents of Captain B. R.
Tillman Are Engaged.

Columbia, S. C., July 18.—[Special.]—There is considerable speculation in political circles, and they are now very extended in this state, as the outcome of the two last sensational incidents in the campaign.

On Wednesday Captain Tillman announced on the stand that William A. Ancrum, in a recent letter, "lied out of the whole cloth," and yesterday Captain Tillman was told on the stand by a newspaper reporter that he was "an infernal liar," and that the truth was not in him.

Colonel Ancrum is a man of undoubted couragt and it is generally believed that he will take prompt measures to resent the, insuit. On the other hand papers from Captain Tillman state that he fears assassination, and he is so constantly surrounded by friends that it is next to impossible for any one known to be unfriendly toward him to obtain a private interview with him. He is well guarded. Sherley C. Hughson, the young correspondent of the News and Courler, who denounced Tillman yesterday, is a second cousin of General R. E. Lee.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 18.—[Special.]—An important feature of the Grape Fair and Alliance Farmers' encampment to be held at Mount Holly, N. At every fair held in the south this year, such an organization should be made. Manufacturers of all kinds of goods should place samples at all these fairs and show the people how much the south herself produces for the necessities of her home life.

His acceptance will create a vacancy in the supreme bench of this state, Judge Sommerville having yet two years before completing his term of office, and already the public is beginning to agitate the question of Judge Sommerville's successor. The names of nearly a dozen prominent Alabamians have been auggested, among them being Colonel H. C. Tompkins, present chairman of the democratic state executive committee, and W. S. Thorington, of Montgomery; Chancellor A. A. Coleman, of Entaw; Chancellor John Poster, of Clayton; Richard H. Walker, of Huntsville; E. T. Simpson, of Florence; Hanuis Taylor, of Mobile; W. A. Walker, of Birmingham; W. T. Webb, of Greensboro; W. J. Sanford, of Opelika, and William Richardson, of Huntsville, late candidate for governor. The probable resignation of Judge Sommerville places in the closing days of Governor Seay's administration the filling of one of the most honorable and important offices in the state, and it will be the second supreme judge he has named. The contest receives additional interest because of the fact that it is now generally conceded that the next legislature will increase the supreme bench from four to five judges, and aspirants for Judge Sommerville's position will be in line for the new chair when created.

Eugene Schuyler, American consul general at Cairo, Egypt, died in that place yesterday. The cloakmakers are still firm against the ratifi-cation of the agreement signed by their com-mittee.

TREET

THE FOURTH DISTRICT.

HON. H. R. HARRIS CHALLENGED ON A QUESTION OF VERACITY

By Judge B. C. Terrell-A Promise Made in 1884 the Bone of Contention-What Judge Terrell Has to Say.

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 18.—[Special.]—The political situation in the fourth district is growing intensely interesting, especially in Troup county, one of the few counties in the district which has no candidate. There are five candidates in the field: Gorman, of Talbot, Grimes, of Muscogee, Harris, of Meriwether, Moses, of Coweta, and Harris, of Carroll, though the latter is not actively engaged in the canvass. Troup will have primary election on the 26th instant, and some of the candidates are now in the county interviewing the people. It is claimed that Hon. Henry R. Harris, in 1884, pledged that if he could secure the democratic nomination and election, he would not again be a candidate for congress. Since his recent an-nouncement of his candidacy, some of the papers in the district have published the fact that he made this promise in a speech at Hamilton a few days ago. Colonel Harris denied having made such a promise.

WHAT JUDGE FERRELL HAS TO SAY. Judge B. C. Ferrell, of LaGrange, one of the most influential men in the county, publishes the following card in this week's Reporter, and the outcome is being watched with some anxiety by friends of Judge Ferrell and Colonel Harris:

Mr. Editor: In a speech made by Colonel H. R. Harris, at Hamilton, July 12th, he denied that he said he would not be a candidate for congress again. I presume he referred to the statement again. I presume he reterred to the statement made by myself and others that he agreed, in 1884, if his political opponents would cease their opposition, take him up, nominate and elect him to congress that year, he would not be a candidate again in the fourth district for congress. If this is what he intended to deny, all I have to say now in relation to his deptahis, that he uttered a faslein relation to his denialis, that he uttered a fasle

Is what he intended to deny, all I have to say now in relation to his denialis, that he uttered a faslebod in the broadest signification of the term. This denial of his precipitates an issue of veracity between the gentleman and myself before the people of Troup county. He knows that I have repeatedly said to various persons in Troup, friends as well as opponents of his, that he did agree with me and pledge himself as a gentleman of honor, if I would cease my opposition to him and aid in procuring his nomination and election for that year to congress, he would not be a candidate again, and that after he was reinstated fully in the democratic party he would gracefully retire and not trouble the people of the district for any more political honors. I repeat that such was his agreement and reiterate the fact that, acting under said agreement, I, with every other prominent opponent of his in the district, ceased our opposition and procured his nomination and election that year. Any person participating actively in that year's election will establish the truth of this assertion. It will be admitted by all that, before the convention of that year met, and repeatedly during the canvas, I made, this statement lopenly and publicly, and urged his promise as a reason and argument for his election, stating, at the time, that it would be easier to rid the district of him in that way than by the trouble of beating him again. Colonel Harris knew at the time that I was making the statement and urging his promise as a reason for his election. If my statement at that time was incorrect and I was misrepresenting him, why did he not deny it? Why did he stand by perfectly mute, and silent as the grave, and avail himself of the benefits of a statement which he says now was untrue? Was not his silence an admission of the truth of the the grave, and avail himself of the benefits of a statement which he says now was untrue? Was not his silence an admission of the truth of the statement? Is not his mouth forever closed by standing mute at the time, and does not every rule of law and ethics prevent his denial? He received the benefit of the statements, knowing that they were being made; did not contradict them at the time, and therefore is bound by them. I have nothing to lose or gain in this matter. I simply intend to vindicate the truth of what I have said. If the issue of veracity had not been have said. If the issue of veracity had not been so squarely made between the colonel and myself by his denial, I would not have noticed it at all and would have left the reconciliation of the discrepancy to his own enlightened experience as a Christian and his professional sentiments as a ventium of honor.

BARNES AMONG HIS FRIENDS.

Burke County Turns Out to a Large and Successful Barbecue.

Major Barnes was there among his friends, and the political outlook for him in Burke is by no means discouraging. No political speeches were made today by any of the candidates.

Mr. E. H. Callaway is announced for the senatorial district. Dr. Lovick Herrington, the expresident of the alliance in Burke county for the past year, is also a candidate for the senate on the alliance platform, but is not regarded as very strong. Then we have Meesrs. W. J. Herrington, T. J. Brenson, Dr. J. C. Hill, William E. Walton, Rev. Jeff. R. Buxton and William H. Davis as candidates for the general assembly. All of these are alliancemen, but W. H. Davis, who is an attorney and was a member of the last legislature. A very heated canvass is at hand, and there are some alliancemen who are dissatisfied with their brother candidates. This, with no concert of action, makes it very difficult even to guess who will be nominated on July 30th next, at our primaries.

DISCUSSING THE ALLIANCE.

Rev. Mr. Callaway Addresses a Large Public Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Ga., July 18.—[Special.]—A very large public meeting, which included prominent farmers from all parts of Wilkes county, and the leading merchants also, collected yesterday at the court house to hear a somewhat notable address which Rev. Branty canaway was invited to hake on the "Aims of the Alliance." Rev. Mr. Callaway, though pastor of three or four of the largest Baptist churches in Wilkes, is also one of the most successful farmers of the county, having been reared on a farm. He is likewise a college-bred geading man, whose character commands high respect. He said that farmers suffered from several Illis: (1) from hostile legislation; (2) from the aggressions of middle men and speculators; (3) from their own ignorance of political economy and business methods. He believed that the alliance would be a powerful agency in relieving these evils. He spoke of our imperfect educational system in Georgia. He also warned his hearers against demagogues who wished to use the alliance for climbing into office. In speaking of the subtreasury scheme, he expressed some doubt; but said the evils which it sought to relieve were real, and expressed a belief that the agitation of the subject would cause some better plan of relief to be devised if this is not just and expedient.

And Heard County is Badly Split Up Over Her Preferences.

Her Preferences.

Franklin, Ga., July 18.—[Special.]—Hon. Henry R. Harris made an interesting address here yesterday, and was replied to by Hon. C. L. Moses. They held a splendid crowd, who listened with great interest to their views of different subjects. It seems that both gentlemen are strong in this county, and so are Colonel Grimes and Judge Sam Harris, and it is a difficult matter to tell who is the leader, but it will be settled Saturday.

REVIEW OF THE SECOND CON-GRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Shows That Hon. Henry G. Turner Will be Able to Carry It Easily-Other Candidates Dropping Out.

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 18 .- Hon. Henry G. Turner will be renominated in the second essional district this year. Worth, Early, Brooks and Berrien have already instructed their delegates for him, while Calhoun instructs for Wootten and Terrell for wo and Guerry two. But Wootten is not a candidate, and while Guerry would accept the nomination, he does not desire to be placed in the attitude of a candidate. Rushin has retired and Thomas county will go for Turner. Colonel Hawes is out of the race and Decatur will most likely go for Turner. Lowndes, Thomas, Mitchell, Colquitt, Dougherty and Baker counties will add fourteen votes to the eight already secured, giving Turner three votes to spare.

THE VOTE OF THE CONVENTION. There will be thirty-eight votes in the convention, but Decatur, Randolph and Miller are reasonably safe for the present, and he has a good fighting chance in Clay and Quit-

Mr. Turner visited Worth, Early and Ber rien counties, and talked to the farmers before they acted, and he successfully overthrew what opposition there was to him. At one meeting, when he concluded his speech, the president of the alliance of the county rose, and said that he was entirely satisfied with Mr. Turner's views, and made a motion that the meeting endorse him, which was done unanimously. Everywhere he has spoken the farmers have gone to him by the score and pledged their support.

Rev. M. C. Rushin, a man of greatinfluence in the alliance, has implored his brothers in the order not to make any fight against Mr. Turner this year, and his views seem to prevail in this end of the district at least.

JUDGE GUERRY'S CANDIDACY. The effort to bring Mr. Guerry into the fight, has practically failed. The alliancemen in the middle and eastern portions of the district were not pleased at the action of the Albany caucus. They say Judge Guerry is a non-allianceman, and not a farmer, and they do not know whether or not he favors the sub treasury bill. The caucus which endorsed him was divided in sentiment, and some of them returned home feeling that they had made a mistake. Mr. Turner's high character, modest demeanor and great ability is the winning card. When he rises to speak, every man in the audience feels at once that he is in the presence of a great and good man, and his sledge-hammer licks go home at every blow. His discussion of the subtreasury bill has put the farmers to thinking of new lines, and a great many of them have such confidence in the man that they acknowledge at once that Mr. Turner knows what he is talking about, and they believe he is honest and will act for the best interests of the country.

SAFE FOR TURNER-The second congressional district is not yet ready to slay him, and men who believe he will not succeed himself in the next congress deceive themselves. Some of the polit are after Mr. Turner's seat, but the people are speech of his life. He was on his mettle, and was logical, convincing and eloquent. He planted himself squarely against the renewal of the charters of national banks, and in favor of the repeal of the ten per cent tax on state banks. His position is that the free coinage of silver, which is a democratic measure, and the revival of state banks with state bonds as a basis for their bills, will give the country plenty of solid redeemable money. He swept everything before him, and will sweep the second district like a cyclone.

Turner Speaks in Thomas. THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 18.—(Special.)—This has been a field day in Thomas. A monster alliance picnic was given at Bold Spring, aims miles from town, and 1 000 people were present.

Colonels R. R. G. Mitchell and A. R. Moody, candidates for the state senate from the seventh district, made speeches, as also did Hons. J. M. Parker and A. W. Ivey, candidates for the lower house. Mr. Moody is the alliance candidate, but will be beaten by Colonel Mitchell. Messrs, Parker and Ivey are also alliance candidates, but will have no opposition.

What is Scrofula

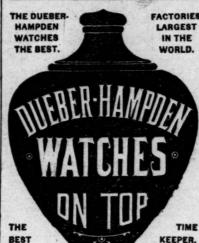

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has preven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparills is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

AMYSTERIOUS TRAGEDY IN DOUGH-ERTY COUNTY.

Walker Goes Out Bear Hunting -His Dead Body Found Next Day-Suspicion of Murder.

ALBANY, Ga., July 18.—[Special.]—Last evening, about 5 o'clock, Mr. Jordan Walker, who had been sick, told his wife that he would take his rifle and see if he could not kill some of the bears which were destroying his corn. His plantation is in the oaky woods, on the edge the Coolawachee swamps. THE SEARCH INSTITUTED.

At 8 o'clock he had not returned, and the negroes were sent to find him. All night they searched fields and swamps without finding him. Early this morning a searching party discovered his dead body lying in the track of two bears, where they made their nightly frays on the corn. Three buckshot had entered his body, one in the head, one in the side and the other in the hip. He had evidently been in a stooping position, and fell backwards, expiring instantly. THE TRACKS DISCOVERED.

Tracks were discovered around him. By his side lay his Winchester ritle still loaded. The tragedy is wrapped in mystery. Whether he was brutally assassinated, or while stooping was mistaken for a bear by some other hunter, who, fearing the dreadful deed he had committed, was afraid to tell it, will perhaps never be known. Mr. Walker has been having some trouble with his hands. Two left him yesterday. A negro came in and had his gun loaded ere the other day, and some suspect that he was the assassin.

Mr. Jordan was about thirty-five years old, and one of the most popular and prosperous planters in the county. A coroner's inquest is to be held, and a large party have gone out to the scene from Albany.

THE EFFINGRAM TRAGEDY. The Citizens Terribly Enraged Against the Murderer.

GCYTON, Ga., July 18.—[Special.]—The killing of Willie and Johnnie Bird by Robbie Norton, yesterday, at Doctor Norton's place, fifteen miles from here, has produced a profound sensation roughout the county.

The criminal annals of the county have never The criminal annals of the control that the before been so blackened by such a tragedy. The prominence of the victims of the unfortunate affair, which deprived Effingham of two worthy amar, which depreted young men, has stirred the people to fever heat, and young Norton would fare very ladly if he should fall into the hands of the friends of the Birds while the excitement runs so F. R. Tarver was foreman of the coroner's jury which held the inquest this morning. Their ver-diet was justifiable homicide as to the killing of Willie Bird, but wilful murder as to the killing of diet was justinable homerede as to the killing of Wille Bird, but wilful murder as to the killing of Johnnie Bird.

The funeral took place this afternoon at Spring-Aeld, in the presence of an immense crowd, Rev.

T. D. Strong performing the funeral services.

Parties returning from the scene of the tragedy and funeral report that immediately after the funeral an indignation meeting was held by the citizens, and resolutions were passed condemning, in strong terms, the killing of the Birds, and requesting the county commissioners to assemble at once to offer an additional reward to be added to the subscription of over $20 raised among the citizens this morning; also a committee was appointed to communicate with Governor Gordon requesting him to offer a reward for the apprehension of young Norton.

It is generally believed that Norton went to Savannah heard some one passing at a late hour last night, riding in great haste, going in that direction.

A SHOOTING IN MACON. Two Negroes Row Over a Woman and Get Into Trouble.

MACON, Ga., July 18.—[Special.]—At about 11 o'clock last night residents of Vineville were startled by numerous rapid reports as of a pistol. It turned out to be a negro fracas in Unionville, a colored suburb near by. It is understood the shooting was the outcome of an interference by Robert Hose in the domestic affairs of Anthony Dallas. Dallas and wife moved to Macon a few weeks ago, and soon after their arrival Hose became enamered, and since that time has caused Dallas more or less uncasiness. Last night Dallas discovered Hose with his wife at an entertainment, and proceded at once to use a-razor on him. Hose resented this, drawing a pistol and doing considerable shooting. The only harm his shooting did, however, was to burn Dallas slightly with powder. The entire party appeared in court his morning. startled by numerous rapid reports as of a pisto

An excellent programme has been arranged and large number of carcasses are being prepared for the occasion.

A number of other prominent gentlemen are to make adcreases, among whom are Hon. R. W. Patterson, Hon. R. A. Nesbit, Hon. Dan Hughes; President Barnwell, President Skipper and others.

THE SUNDAY CONSTITUTION SENT TO ANY ADDRESS. ATLANTA, GA., JULY 19, 1890.

A Word to Democratic Senators. The New York Mail and Express, which is tooth and toe nail for the federal force and fraud bill, permits its Washington correspondent to say that there will be some "factious" opposition to a change of the rules in the senate for the purpose of forcing the election bill through that body. This opposition, according to the correspondent. will come from Edmunds of Vermont, Teller of Colorado, and Plumb of Kansas-Mr. Edmunds having declared from the chair of the caucus that he would do everything he could to prevent a change of the rules so as to limit debate on any subject.

There is no doubt, however, that what the correspondent calls the "factious" opposition of these senators will disappear whenever Speaker Reed, the leader of the republican conspirators, cracks the party whip. When the critical moment comes, the republicans will be found handed together in the effort to apply the Reed gag rules in the Under these circumstances, what is the duty of the democratic senators? They owe it to their party, to the country and to themselves to resist the passage of the federal force and fraud bill by every means in their power. It is their duty, therefore, to fight every measure and to oppose to the last every effort looking towards the enactment of the force bill into a law. They should concentrate their opposition to this measure by resisting to the last the adoption of the Reed gag rules.

The situation is this: For nearly one hundred years-through a tremendous civil war and the chaotic experiences of the reconstruction-the senate has acted under the existing rules. It is now proposed by the republican conspirators, in the face of public disapproval, to change these timehonored rules in order to force through the the senate a partisan measure that will have the effect of demoralizing the industrial as well as the political south.

If the republican caucus decides to change the rules, as it undoubtedly will, it then becomes the duty of the democrats to resist the change. It is better for them to skirmish and filibuster on the rule than to post pone these tactics. In fact, the defeat of the gag rule scheme is now the only hope of the democrats and of the country, for if that scheme is adopted the federal force and fraud bill is bound to become a law.

In this matter, the democratic senators should take an aggressive position from the start and be prepared to fight it out on that line all summer. The defeat of the gag rule is the only hope of the south and of the country.

The European Outlook.

The map of Europe may undergo remarkable changes in the course of the next year or two.

From St. Petersburg to London there is uneasiness in every cabinet, and active preparations in military circles.

Hardly a single country in Europe feels secure. England is at odds with France over the Newfoundland fishery question with Turkey over the occupation of Egypt, with this country in regard to the Behring sea matter, and with Russia on general principles. There is a war cloud in the Balkan region. Burning issues threaten to precipitate a conflict between Austria and Russia, Germany and Russia, and France and Ger-

The atmosphere is decidedly gunpowdery, and it is difficult to see how the situation can remain peaceful much longer. When the next war breaks out there will be a change of boundaries. Russia may capture Constantinople and get a foothold in India. France will try to regain Alsace and Lorraine. Egypt will fall to one of the great powers.

But the field of speculation is too wide to enter upon. We must wait and see what comes out of the clash of arms.

A South American Republic. Since the Pan-American council our politicians and newspapers have talked a good deal of nonsense about our sister republics of South America.

Some of these sister republics have been despotisms from first to last. Take the single instance of Paraguay. God made that country a paradise, but man has made It a hell. From 1816 to 1840 Francia held undisputed sway. He called himself "Su preme and Perpetual Dictator." He was man of culture, determined, cold-blooded and merciless. He raised a strong army, levied taxes to suit his pleasure on the wealthy, used the public treasury as his own, and made it a capital crime for a citizen to leave the country. The only good thing that he did was to establish under bayonet rule a perfect system of agriculture which the farmers were not permitted to modify or Francia was not an exceptional ruler so far as Paraguay is concerned. As late as the period between 1865 and 1870 General Lopez proved himself a tyrant of the first order. This man butchered several hundred prisoners of war because it was inconvenient to take care of them. He punished a colonel who lost a battle by shooting his wife and mother. He murdered his old playmate and friend, the bishop of Paraguay. He put in irons and tortured statesmen, jurists, old men, children and lovely women. He put his younger brother to the torture, and killed his brother-in-law. He flogged his two sisters, and dragged them as prisoners after his army for five months. He put his seventy year old mother in prison for two years, and then compelled her at the church altar to renounce her other children as traitors and declare himself her only child, telling her that death was the alternative.

Other South American republics have a cretty black record. They are republican only in form. Perhaps if we cultivate intinate commercial relations with them the situation will gradually improve, but the fact cannot be denied that free government in South America is a delusion and a snare The brief chapter that we have given of Paraguavan history will throw some light upon the methods of government in the countries south of us.

Hon. James F. O'Neill.

The interview with Hon. James F. O'Neill, published elsewhere in THE Con-STITUTION, shows the character of the man, sand votes for him in Wednesday's primary, there is not a man who will not be glad of having done so, after reading the many sentiments expressed therein.

It is not often, in defeat, that a man car review his campaign as cheerfully and as complacently as does Mr. O'Neill. There are no charges or rebukes, no evidences of petty spite or jealousy. He calmly accepts the situation, with a good word for his successful competitors, and with expression of his determination to push the practice of his profession just as if there had been no elec-

The average man would not have viewed the situation as does Mr. O'Neill, and the way in which he demonstrates his manhood entitles him to as much praise in defeat as there would have been occasion for congratulation in victory. Mr. O'Neill is yet a young man-unusually young to have acmplished as much as he has. Yet several years on the sunny side of thirty, he has epresented his county with credit to himself and profit to his constituents. He will be heard from in future. His ability is recognized; his friends are earnest and loval, and his liberality is demonstrated by his manly remarks in today's Constitu-

The Carolina Democracy.

It is only necessary to read the utterances of some of the leading democratic papers of South Carolina to perceive that the political situation in that state is rapidly going from bad to worse. The partisanship of both factions of democrats has been carried to the most extreme limits, and unless the democrats of that state shall come to their senses and realize the all-important fact that there is a more important issue than Tillman or anti-Tillman, it is to be feared that in the excess of their opposition the democrats will deliberately turn South Carolina over to the unhappy results of negro domination.

The campaign for and against Tillman has not been a happy episode in Carolina politics. It has been marked by hot blood from the first, and it is difficult to say who is to blame for in—the Tillman men or the anti-Tillman men. There has probably been an excess of fury on both sides, and it seems to be certain that the prejudices which Tillman's supporters entertain against the alleged "ring" are not greater than those with which the co-called "straightouts" regard the Tillman democrats. At the bottom of it all, however, on both sides, is a spirit of intolerance which has no place in modern politics, and which is out of tune with this day and generation and discreditable to reason-

THE CONSTITUTION has taken a good deal of interest in the Carolina campaign. One of its staff correspondents was dispatched to report two or three of the most interesting discussions between Tillman and his opponents, and its resident correspondents have fully supplemented these reports in order hat our readers might be kept fully in formed as to the progress and development of this interesting, and, in many respects, unique campaign. Our opinion is that ther has been an excess of heat and fury or both sides. We are also of the opinion that Tillman, although he may be a demagogue, has a majority of the people with him, and if this is the case the minority should submit as gracefully as possible, depending on future events to open the eyes of the people, Recently, perceiving the popularity of Tillman, the "straightouts" issued an appeal to the opponents of the formers' candidate to meet in Columbia and confer. Three hundred and ninety-six democrats met in response to this call, and every county but one was represented. We have seen it stated, however, that the counties of Richland, Fairfield, Sumter and Orangeburg sent one hundred and seventy-nine delegates of the total. The result of this conference was the resolutions which we commented on the other day, providing for a primary election in the nomination of a candidate for gov-

The Charleston News and Conrier says that "the demand of the straightout democratic conference that the August convention shall direct that the delegates to the September convention shall be chosen by primary election cannot be disregarded: that "to select the delegates by any other plan will cause a split in the party." Such dogmatism as this will certainly prove to be galling to the democrats who are supporting Tillman, and it is probably intended to have that effect. But who will be responsible for the split in the party, if it comes-the opponents of Tillman, who have set up this ultimatum, or the followers of Tillman, who will insist on choosing delegates according to the methods established by the democratic party of the state? The Greenville News, which has strongly opposed Tillman, perceives the danger to the state that lurks behind this unofficial ultimatum, perceives the disaster that must follow from a split organized by a minorityand says it will support Tillman if he is nominated, though it believes that the August convention will refuse to order primaries. This means that the Greenville News will bow to the will of the majority, and it is not only the spirit of genuine d mocracy, but the spirit that will prove to be the salvation of South Carolina. Commenting on the announcement of the Greenville News, however, the Charleston News and Courier says that "the doctrine and position of the News, as we understand it, is this: That the machinery of the party, no matter how controlled, or for what no matter now controlled, or for what pur-pose, is bigger than the party itself." This ment indeed, for it must appear to any impartial person that the doctrine of the Greenville paper is that the party is bigger than the machinery itself, and that a majority is entitled to control it. This is essence of democratic doctrine.

A Republican Protest. A correspondent of the Washington Post who has voted for every republican presidential candidate, from Fremont to Harrison, enters his protest against the force bill.

This veteran republican says that such measure is not justifiable after twenty-five years of peace. He fears that it will cause race conflicts and interrupt the silent but active work of reconciling the sections.

Doubtless many republicans are of the same way of thinking. The force bill is favored by a violent minority, and the leaders who are pushing it will find at the next election that their party will repudiate them and their methods. The republicans who believed in Lincoln and Grant cannot follow Harrison and Tom Reed.

The force bill is loaded, and its results, if it becomes a law, will be just what its supporters do not expect.

WILSON, of the Methodist Episco pal church, south, began a journey around the world from Baltimore on Monday, and for the third time has left his home to visit the missic established by his church in Asiatic countries. At Vancouver Bishop Wilson will take passage on the steamer Batavia, and expects to reach Yokohama, n Japan, fifteen days later. At Yokohama he will take the steamer for Kobe, a large city in Japan, the center of the mission work in that country of the southern Methodist church. He will visit all the missions in that neighborhood, twelve in number and, before his departure, will organize a confer-ence. The southern Methodists began work in Japan four years ago and now have there twelve ninisters, all native Americans, with 400 churc members. In October Bishop Wilson will leav for China to preside over the annual session of the Chinese conference, and will remain there until December 1. The work of the church in China is confined to one province, which has a population of 36,000,000. Shanghal, where the conference will be held, is the chief city of the province. The Chinese mission was established in 1848. The conference now includes thirty-two ministers, twenty of whom are native Chinese. Looking Into the Alliance Matters-He Is and Talks Quite Freely.

Dr. W. C. Macune of Washington, D. C., is

On his way west, the doctor reached Atlanta late Thursday night. All day yesterday he passed looking into the alliance affairs and mingling with his Georgia friends and acquaintances. "I find," he said last night, "every thing in excellent shape, and the alliance in Georgia moving right along."

"How are things in the north?" "Every thing is just as we would like to ave it. It could hardly be better." "And the subtreasury?"

"The outlook is very favorable indeed. Of course we don't know that we can elect a subtreasury congress. But what is most favorable is the spreading of the sentiment in favor of

"Is the alliance as activel in any other state

"Yes. All through the south. There seems, however, to be a mistaken idea abou the alliance's part in politics. Any action the alliance may take anywhere in politics is purely local. There is nothing like a state or national movement in this line, and wherever you find the alliance taking a and wherever you find the alliance taking a hand in politics, it is simply through some local reason. The nearest the alliance has come to taking a general part in politics was in Alabama, where the disgraceful fight was made on Kolb. That drove the alliance to his support.

Then had the canvass in Tennessee resulted in the defeat of Buchanan I do not pretend to say what would have been the result. In Alabama there was a combination against Kolb, simply because he was a farmer. The same combination, for the some reason, was made in Tennessee against Buchanan, and I am glad to see that Buchanan has whipped the fight."

"What about the South Carolina—?"

the fight."
"What about the South Carolina—?"
"That has nothing whatever to do with the alliance. The farmers' movement over there is entirely separate from the alliance. The fact is the alliance in South Carolina is young yet, and while there are a good many alliancemen, and doubtless almost all of them are sympathizers of Tillman, his candidacy is not as an allianceman. I really don't even know whether he is man. I really don't even know whether he is member of the alliance or not.

"Then the general outlook ——?"
"Never was brighter. The alliance will accomplish all it set out to accomplish, and if it does that wa will all be more than satisfied."
Dr. Macune will leave today for Arkansas.

MR. O'NEILL TALKS

ABOUT THE CAUSES WHICH LED TO A Manly Talk Which Will Be Read With In-

-What Friends from Different Parts of the State Say. Hon. James F. O'Neill was busy in his of-See yesterday afternoon, trying with the aid of stenographer to catch up with what seemed to be a big accumulation of business. "Am trying to make up for lost time now," was Mr. O'Neill's greeting to a Constitution rter who called to see him. He seemed to reporter who called to see him. He seemed to be in the most cheerful spirits as he dictated business letters and talked politics in the same was that I did not have votes enough. "But, seriously speaking, were there not some other causes which contributed to your

"Well, there doubtless were; but I am prepared to give the reasons just now. One thing is certain: both myself and friends were overconfident. We did not think that there uld be a doubt of it, and hundreds did not go to the polls because they felt sure that I would be sent back. Then again, there were hundreds of young men who owned no real estate, who did not think it necessary to register, as they felt sure I would go in anyhow This also contributed to defeat me. And under the requirements of the new registration law, they did not know either how to register or how to vote and that shut out a large number of the friends of all candidates. In fact, those who registered did not do so for the purpose of voting, but as a mere incident of the payment of their taxes. Then there was a large number of young men who let the time slip by for registering, and when the day of election came they had no vote and were shut out. They should look to this in the future. Again, not half of even those who registered voted. I have no doubt whatever that if there had been a full vote polled that I would have developed the strength that my friends knew I possessed, and that I would have been elected.' "Are there any other reasons which you can "Well, one is the fact of the majority against me in the county this time when two years ago it went for me almost solidly. This was a surprise to me, from the fact that I had introduced and passed a bill which had secured to the people of the country precincts representation on the board of county commissioners, which they had long desired but had never been able to obtain before. This bill I had passed as a matter of justice, though I lost a few friends in the city by so doing. But it seems that the country ignored entirely the work that I had done.

"I have, however, no complaints to make. My defeat is due to my own inactivity and overconfidence. I thought of course that my course in the last legislature would be endorsed by the people and did not trouble to make an active canvass. I have, however, the consolation of knowing that out of the thousand and odd votes cast for me out of the small vote polled, every one represents a personal friend—and that is no small gratification. sides this, I feel very keenly the manner in which scores of gentlemen have come to me and assured me that they feel my defeat as acutely as if it were a personal matter with them. Again, I have had numerous messages from my former colleagues in the last legisla-ture, and they express their regrets at my defeat in such a way and with so much sympathy that it enables me to gather some consolation I will read you one from the Hon. Joe Lamar, of Augusta, who is well known as one of the most brilliant orators and most well-equipped legislators in the last house.

My Dear Jim: I am not able to say what my disappointment and regret are. It is almost like a personal defeat to learn that you were not nominated in the primaries yesterday. I felt so sure that you would be sent back to the house from Falken that it mover occurred to me that sure that you would be sent back to the house from Fulton that it never occurred to me that you were in any danger from the many combinations being formed; and feeling sure, as I do, that it was only such a state of things that defeated you. I want to write just this line to you—that those who knew you best in the house will be most disappointed at your defeat. I cannot begin to say how deeply I regret it. Your friend,

J. R. LAMAR. J. R. LAMAR.

"Well," Mr. O'Neill continued, "when a man receives such expressions of regret from men of such ability, it takes away half of the sting of defeat and renders it almost a victory in itself. Such expressions encourage me, and would have a tendency to lighten the burden of defeat with any man. It may be that at some future time these good friends may have a chance to show their fealty, but for the present I am satisfied and content with the way things have gone, and I am perfectly satisfied with the verdict of the people. Indeed, I am sure that the gentlemen whom the people of Fulton county have chosen will ably represent them in the coming legislature, and that they will do all for them that could posibly be done. I only wish to return my thanks to those of my friends who so cordially supported me, and to say to them and the public at large that I am now, and will be in the future, entirely devoted to the practice of my profession-

1 White Man Arrested for That Offense Last Night.

Last night a telephone message was sent to police headquarters asking for an officer at 144 Loyd street. The message was sent in by a citizen in that immediate neighborhood. Call Officer Ivey answered the call, arresting Bird had been drinking some during the evening, and when he reached home he was pretty lively from the influence.

He and his wife began quarreling and then hows were struck. Bird of course got the better of the fight, which was of such proportions and of so bloody a nature as to attract the whole neighborhood.

When the officer reached the house, Mrs. Bird was found covered with blood. A gash was cut in the back of her head, and both of her eyes were frightfully bruised. The bed and bed clothes were saturated with blood, and ample evidences of a lively row were abundantly present.

Mrs. Bird's wounds are not thought to be serious, but she will probably be laid up for a little while. Bird says his wife had an attack of delirium tremens and she was hurt in his efforts to control her.

He will be given a hearing before the recorder today, and it is probable that a state case will be developed.

THEY ARE GEORGIA BOYS, And They Have Won Their Way in the

the grit Georgia boys have. The story is rather romantic.

"In 1864, says the Enquirer, "just at the close of the war, a family named Stuart came to this city from Atlanta, Ga. They were in very destitute circumstances. They had two little boys, named Zebulon and Charlie, whom they put into the Home. We never knew what became of the mother and the father, after going to Virginia, also disappeared. The boy Charlie was placed in a family in Indiana, where he grew up, married the daughter of his benefactor, and through his wife came into a handsome estate, and today is a prosperous and influential citizen in his community. "Zeb" was adopted into the family of a gentleman named James McGee, living then and now at Mechanicsburg, Ind. Here the lad grew up into a handsome, intelligent boy, and was educated at, and became a graduate of, the SpicelandjAcademy at Richmond, Ind. In 1880 he went out as a civil engineer on gent boy, and was educated at, and became a graduate of, the Spiceland|Acadenuy at Richmond, Ind. In 1880 he went out as a civil engineer on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad that at that time was being built. In 1883 he went to California and was appointed public surveyor for San Bernardo county in that state.

Only a short time ago, backed by the recommendation of Governor Sheldon, of New Mexico, and that of Senator Leland Stanford, of California, he applied for the position of surveyor general of California, and it is almost positive that he will receive the appointment. Zebulon is now almost thirty years old, with positive success within his reach, and engaged to be married to a most estimable young lady in his adopted state. Anxious to know something of his early history he wrote us. We turned his letter over to the Associated Charities. The investigation in this case developed the fact that this Stuart is a namesake of and a member of the family of that gallant conof and a member of the family of that gallant con-federate officer, General Zeb Stuart, who met his death in that twilight foray at Yellow Tayern.

T. H. B. Thorpe, the Young Man Charged

BROUGHT FROM SAVANNAH.

With Cheating and Swindling.

Officer Jordan returned from Savannah yesterday morning, bringing with him T. H. B. Thorpe, the young man who was arrested there on Chief Connolly's telegram.

An account of Thorpe's transaction with the little romance which invested it was published a day or two ago.

Yesterday and last night he occupied a cell in the police station. Today he will be given an opportunity for a preliminary hearing. It is probable, however, that this will be waived, either by election of the young man or a settlement of the election of the young man or a settlement of th Thorpe takes the situation easily, and is very hopeful of the trouble being adjusted.

He was seen by a reporter last night, but beyond stating that he would tell everything when the right time came, did not care to talk much about his case.

"You can say this for me if you will," he said,
"You can say this for me if you will," he said,
"that I did not try to get any young lady to go off with me. I didn't do that."
During the day a large number of Thorpe's friends and fellow clerks called at the stationhouse to see him. He did not care to receive visitors, however, and none were admitted to his cell

cell.

Thorpe has been clerking in Atlanta about a year. He came here from Brooklyn with several other young men who wanted to see the south. He has always been popular, and has a great many friends who are sorry to see him in his present trouble.

Husband.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 18.—[Special.]—A stylishly dressed young lady rushed up to two policemen on Second avenue today, and in a very hysterical manner said:

"Arrest that man. He is my husband. I've hunted everywhere for him," at the same time pointing to a young man seated at a window on the second floor of a fashionable private boarding house across; the street.

"Come on," she cried to the officer, and led the way upstairs.

"Come on," she cried to the officer, and led the way upstairs.

"Where is my husband, Frank Huffman," she asked, when met by Mrs. Grubbs, who keeps the boarding house. She was told that there was no one there by that name, but she rushed into a room and found the object of her search. She also found another young woman in the room and then there was a scene that startled all the boarders in the house. During the excitement the young iann, who is known here as Frank Bell, leaped through a window and dashed off down the street. One of the officers gave chase and finally captured him. He was taken to the city prison, and on complaint of the young lady a charge of adultery was entered against him.

Huffman's wife says they lived at Arlington, Ky., and that he deserted her three months ago. She has searched the country over for him, and only found him today. The man has been here two menths with a handsome woman whom he introduced as his wife, but since the arrest, both admit that they are not married. The woman was also arrested, and locked up on the charge of adultry. She says she is a married woman, that her husband's name is Bell, but he deserted her several months ago. She then ran away with Huffman, who assumed the name of Bell when they came to this city.

ALL ABOUT TRADE. Review of the Week's Business by R. G.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The weekly review of trade of R. G. Dun & Co. says: The silver bill has been passed and signed by the president, but has had scarcely any effect in the market & yet, has been passed and signed by the president, but has had scarcely any effect in the market all yet, excepting an advance in bar silver to 508 31d, followed by a decline to 50d. No change appears in the money market, and foreign exchange remains steady at a point which admits exports of gold, the engagements for today being $500,000 for Germany. In interior money markets there is a moderate increase of demand though the supply seems to be adequate everywhere. At Boston the market is easier, at Philadelphia dull, and at Chicago firm at former rates.

Western hides are higher, and there is a good retail trade in summer goods. Cotton goods are strong, but wool favors buyers. Philadelphia reports very small sales of wool and a bright outlook in groceries and iron. The Chicago board of trade statistics continue to show a great increase over last year in the movement of all grain and flour and in meats, while a rather better tone is reported in Philadelphia.

In the iron market there is an improved demand for structural iron. Mill iron is still weak here, and rails are quoted at 31 cents.

The large consumption of copper sustains prices at 17 cents. Lead is dull at $400.52. Coal is lower. Wool is dull and in limited demand. No definite improvement is shown in the woolen goods market. The efforts to advance prices on dressings are retarded by surplus stocks in the market or by heavy importations. The speculative markets have been curiously variable. Wheat is more than half a cent lower than a week ago, notwithstanding some evidences of injury from drougth. Corn has advanced nearly a half cent and oats over 2c, without a clearly definable reason, except in speculation.

Cotton is an eight higher again in spite of favorable crop reports. Hogs and pork products are weaker. Raw sugar has been advanced a sixteenth, though refined is lower, and the Spreckles product offered below that of the trust. The general averyeg prices of commodities is nearly one per cent lower than a week ago, and with no setback in crop prospects considerably lower quotations seem probable. The treasury has taken in $2,100,000 more money than it paid out during the past week, although it has purchased $25,000 ounces of silver at a price not much below $1.10.

Foreign trade continues unsatisfactory, as respects the monetary feature, because merchandise reports from New York for half of July fall twenty per cent below those of the same week last year, while there appears a remarkably large increase in imports here.

The stock market has been unsettled and dull, the failure to settle the trunk line rates according to expectations having a depressing influence. Coal carriers were strong, and railroads generally report a heavy increase over last year in earnings. Business failures occurring during the week number for the United States, 189; Canada, 20. Total, 207, against 197 last week. Cotton is an eight higher again in spite of favor-

DEATH PARDONED HER.

CALLIE BUSH, A PENITENTIARY

Weird Story in Her Life and Death-An Accessory to a Murder-Her Body Was Recovered.

Georgia penitentiary, suicided yesterday.

The news came here in this telegram last evening:

GRAYSVILLE, Ga., July 18.—Colonel John R.
Towers, Principal Keeper: Callie Bush drowned herself today. Body recovered. See letter.
W. S. TYSON,

W. S. TYSON,
Superintendent Graysville Penitentiary.
A terrible story is told in those few words—
the fitting end of a wild and wasted life.
The only white woman in the Georgia penitentiary!

Pardoned out—her shame and her misery thrown off like a garment!

Dead! Callie Bush had served more than a year or a fifteen years' sentence for murder in Dade county. She was merely an accessory, the principal being her sweetheart, John Pyburn, who is now serving a life sentence.

The woman was well known in Dade and the surrounding counties before that murder was committed.

was committed.

She was an abandoned character, but with some redeeming traits, and it is said that no hungry man or woman was ever turned away from her cabin in the mountains. She was a famous nurse, a capital guide, and could ride and shoot better than most men. vas committed.

and shoot better than most men.

She was called a gypsy by many of her neighbors, from her restless and out-of-door life and passionate disposition.

Her part in the murder was prompted by her love for John Pyburn.

Not many days ago she remarked to one of the guards at the camp:

"I'd rather be dead than to be penned up this way, and I can't stand it much longer."

"Where do you suppose you would go to if you got out that way?" asked another convict.

"To h—l!" was the quick reply.

Her position amongst the convicts, being the only white woman, was a peculiar one, and not without some savage dignity and consequence.

Some interest is felt in the disposition of her body.

Will it be dissected in some medical college? Or will it be turned over to some one, friend or relative, and be buried in the mountains?

The Particulars.

GRAYSVILLE, Ga., July 18.—[Special.]—This morning, about 10 a. m., Callie Bush, a white woman and convict at the Graysville penitentiary, was missing. She was traced to the Chick-amanga river, which is just in the rear of the penitentiary. In her apartment a note was found, under the pillow, stating her intention to commit suicide. She was sentenced from Dade county for fifteen years for manslaughter, and she was about eighteen years old and was the only white woman in a Georgia penitentiary During her imprisonment, she has conducted herself in such a way as not to give the superintendent any trouble, and seemed to be contented in her prison life. In fact, she has never had to be corrected for any misconduct.

After Captain Tyson, the superintendent, found the note he was satisfied she had drowned herself. He at once began dragging the river, and soon found her body in about twenty feet of the land. A coroner's july was legally empaneled, and their verdict was voluntary assicted by drown, The Particulars. the land. that its theory is correct.

The peculiar and scientific construction of the ALASKA creates a thorough and constant circulation, by which all vapors arising from foods in the provision chamber are condensed in the ice pan, and run off with the melting ice. Most refrigerators are so constructed that vapors from various kinds of food are chilled to bead

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, July 18.-The damage to MEW YORK, July 18.—The damage of the Western Union building in this city by fire this morning destroyed the means of communication with the outside world to a great extent, and brokers this morning found themselves with no means of getting business except from those customers who happened to be in the city. The smallness of business done at the stock exchange is a written commentary upon the character of is a sufficient commentary upon the character of trading for the past month or two. There was no market worthy of consideration. Trading was entirely local from the nature of things, and prices were left to their natural bent to a greater extent than for many a day, with the result that fluctuations in most of the list were confined to from 1/4 to 1/2 per cent, and those stocks in which there was movement enough to merit mention may be counted upon the fingers of one hand. Rumors of a deal between Hocking Valley and wome other road, supposed to be the Norfolk and Western, sent the former stock up nearly 1 per cent, and that stock enjoyed a prominence in the market which it seldom attains. Even Sugar Refineries was very dull, but manipulators saw fit to move it up sharply in the latter portion of the december it reaches a color of the color when it reaches a color of the color of the color when it reaches a color of the color day, when it reached a point 2 per cent better than its first prices. Lackawanna, Rock Island and Pacific Mail were firm on very light fluctuations, and the remainder, while displaying a firm undertone, failed to move more than the slightest fractions. Factors which now are of most im portance to the future course of prices seemingly had no effect whatever upon values today, and while meager advices from the west in regard to railroad situation, and efforts to adjust existing difficulties were regarded as favorable, there was no response to them. The bulls are more and more convinced that before the first of September the sliver law will have begun to show its influ-ence, and then all kinds of business will show a marked improvement. In the last hour of business the announcement was made that a decision denying the right of the receiver of the North River sugar refinery to proceed against other properties of the trust had been handed down, and Sugar Refineries was lifted 3 per cent, with a large increase in the amount of business done. The rest of the market sympathized to a limited extent, and the close was firm, though very dull, at something better than the opening figures. Yotal sales of stocks today 81,365 shares.

ATLANTA, July 18, 1890. Owing to the burning of the Western Union Telegraph company's office in New York this morning the domestic cotton markets have not been received.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular. NEW YORK, July 18-[Special.]—Deprived of our usual information from the south by the destruction of the operating rooms of the Western Union Telegraph company this morning our mar-ket has been a dull and dragging one, governed entirely by the advices from abroad. Rains have entirely by the advices from abroad. Rains have fallen in central Georgia, where they were needed, and private advices by way of Philadelphia report local rains south and east of San Antonio along the Aransas Pass railroad. Foreign advices showed a falling off in the demand from spinners who, holding comfortable reserve stocks, are disposed to curtail their purchases in hopes of securing a lower basis of values. In this course they were encouraged by a decline in silver to 49½d, a decline that naturally causes the cessation of the sharp demand for goods in Manchester. Spinners have bought freely, both in New York and the southern markets, and our market will be governed by the weather advices from the cotton belt until new cotton appears.

IN THE U. S. COURTS.

A COUNTERFEITING CASE BEFORE COMMISSIONER HAIGHT.

The Deputy Collectors Busy Pulling in the Mountain Moonshiners-Lots of Illicit Distilling in Georgia.

The moonshiners are engaging the full attention of the deputy collector of Georgia these hot, midsummer days. Every day brings three or four reports of selzures to the collector's office, and there was never such an extent of illicit distilling in Georgia and Alabama before. Deputy Collectors Nelson and Hethering, in company with United States Mar-shal Corbett, have just returned from a raid in Taylor county where they seized upon two very large distilleries. No arrests were made, but the amount of beer and whisky captured is very large. It is said that there are several other illicit distilleries in this section which will next claim the attention of the revenue officers.

Deputy Collectors Ware and Spence have reported the capture of one of the largest dis tilleries that has been disclosed this year, in the mountains of northeast Georgia.

The distillery was found in the Blue Ridge mountains, about ten miles from Clarkesville, in Habersham county.

The officers succeeded, with but little difficulty in capturing the distillery and all of its fixtures, which included a sixty gallon copper still, seven hundred gallons of beer and fifty gallons of wine. The distillery was well equipped, and was snugly hidden in one of the remotest valleys of the Tallulah mountains. No arrests were made, as the owners of the distillery were absent.

COMMISSIONER HAIGHT'S COURT. Thomas Dunwoody, a negro charged with palming off counterfeit money, was arraigned before Commissioner Will Haight yesterday. Howard Garner, the prosecutor of the case, swore that he had been cheated by Dunwoody by having him pass a counterfeit half dollar on him for two silver quarters in making change.

Another witness testified that he had been given a counterfeit dollar by Dunwoody while the latter was trading in his store. The two pieces of counterfeit money were in court as evidence, but one of the witnesses failed to recognize, with accuracy, the counterfeit dollar as the one passed upon him, and the other prosecutor told such a faint story of evidence against the prisoner that Commissioner Haight discharged him. Two retail cases also came before Commis-sioner Haight's court, against James W. Baker and Robert Scoot.

They were both charged with retailing whisky without license, and both were bound over to appear before the United States court. PIEDMONT CHAUTAUQUA.

Has a Word to Say for Georgia in a Bosto Paper. From the Roston Globe

I am just up from Georgia, and this morning, reading the Transcript, the first item coming to reading the Transcript, the first item coming to my notice is an article, "For Needy Southerners," from the pen of Mrs. C. F. Dunham.

It strikes me with astonishment for it is the first knowledge that I have had that the condition of the rural population of the south is so deplorable as to need the charity of the good people of Boston in the way of "half-worn shoes and clothing."

The truth of the matter is that the charitably inclined people of Boston and New England need not concern themselves about the poverty of the south more than they would of many other parts of the land, and may I not add, even as to the black race.

of the land, and may I not add, even as to the black race.

The writer who has witnessed the poverty in the many regions of our country cannot help asking the question, why will not the good people of New England do more for the poor sufferers, who do so much for their comfort, and who live in a section where the climate adds tenfold more to their sufferings than at the south.

"For Needy Southerners." Strange indeed does the heading of Mrs. Dunham's article sound to the writer.

Why, the very children of Atlanta, instigated by The Construction, have just raised $4,000 for an elephant fund to be donated to the park. Then a rival evening paper starts a lion fund; a like sum raised.

rival evening paper starts a lion fund; a like sum raised.

All over the south our cities are coming to the front with subscriptions to great enterprises and charities, all of which proves the positive fact that there is something wrong about Mrs. Dunham's appeat "For Needy Southerners."

The climate and condition of things at the south today are alike favorable to all classes, even the gentle women and "noble girls" that Mrs. Dunham talks about.

Never before under such adverse circumstances of life has a race of young men developed capacity and shouldered the burdens of the day as the present generation of young men in the south.

I am a "white oak cheese" and "wooden nutineg" Hartford, Cong., yankte, and after a residence of over ten years in the south, covering several states, have decidedly come to the conclusion that the people of Boston and New England should no longer consider the southern states a field for missionary work, either for the white or black races.

"Mother's Friend."
A distinguished member of the legal profes sion of Atlanta, Ga., remarked, when pur chasing a bottle of "Mother's Friend," "its merit can best be made known by word of mouth." The instinctive modesty of mothers is such they shrink from attaching their names to a published certificate, but we know many who say to their friends: "We have tried it, and would have it were the cost twenty times what it is." Were we permitted, we could publish hundreds of endorsements of ladies from all ranks of society who have voluntarily written us regarding the favorable results following the use of 'Mother's Friend," before confine ment. COUNTY DEMOCRATS

WILL MEET IN THE COURT HOUSE TODAY.

A New Executive Committee to be Selected-The Delegates to the Three Coming Conventions.

The Fulton county democrats will have a grand mass meeting in the county court house

The meeting will be called to order at noon. The political work of the year has only begun, and the democrats of the county have lots of work before them yet. A new county executive committee is to be created. That must be done today. Then the selection of delegates to the guber-natorial, congressional and state senatorial conventions must be provided for. All of these questions will be considered in the mass meeting today.

Hon. Hubert Culberson, the popular and efficient chairman of the present executive committee, will call the mass meeting to order and then surrender to the democracy of the county the trust he and his associates have so faithfully and zealously guarded for the past two years.

P. V. Primrose was convicted on a charge of cheating and swindling, and sentenced to serve three months in the chaingang.

Besides this he was fined $230, double the amount of the value of the watch that he purchased of Mr. E. W. Blue, and failed to pay for, which was the cause of the prosecution.

Primrose endeavored to excite the sympathies of the people of Atlanta by claiming that he was a confederate veteran and had lost an arm at Chancellorsville.

confederate veteran and had lost an arm at Chancellorsville.

When the Confederate Veterans' association took the matter in hand and investigated the case, it was found that Primrose lost his arm by the fall of an elevator in a hotel about ten years ago.
Solicitor Frank O'Bryan, with Mr. John Clay Smith, who was Mr. Blue's attorney, succeeded the convicting Primrose with but very little trouble, and he will not only serve the term of his sentence, but will probably be compelled to work out his fine, as he has no means of paying the fine.

In Exchange for Improved City Property. A gentleman owning 240 acres of good hammock land in the county of Sumter, in the state of Florida, between the Withlacoochee river and Lake Panasoffkee, with a landing upon the Withlacoochee river, would exchange the same for improved city property situated in Atlanta or any thrifty near-by town. About 75 acres of the 240 acres are set in the finest varieties of oranges and lemons and about one-third of the 75 acres comes into SOUTHERN DENTISTS.

THEY HOLD THEIR LAST AND MOST IMPORTANT SESSION.

The Convention Adjourns to Meet Next Year at Morehead City-A Great Scheme Discussed.

The southern dentists have dispersed, after holding their last session of the convention.

They met, for the last time during the twenty-second annual convention, yesterday norning at 10 o'clock in the hall of the Young Men's Christian association building.

The meeting was called to order by Prosident J. C. Story, and the dentists went to work with a hearty zest after the revelry of their banquet the night before.

The committee on resolutions offered a reso lution of thanks to the committee on arrange ments, to the local dentists, and to the citizens of Atlanta, for the cordial welcome and abundant hospitality accorded them. The resolution was passed by a unanimous vote.

A resolution was also reported favorably by the committee providing for the building of a Southern Dental home under the auspices of

This resolution embodied the most gigantic scheme ever yet hit upon by the association and called forth a warm and enthusiastic dis-

Everybody was in favor of it. The sentiment of the meeting designed that the dental home should be built in some desirable place where the southern dentists could spend several weeks in summer, mutually studying the advancement in their art and profession, and exchanging ideas in practical dentistry. The measure was discussed by almost every member of the association, and the result was the unanimous adoption of the resolution.

A committee, consisting of the president of the association and the executive committee, and also of one member from each southern state, to make investigation as to the cost of the home, and a suitable place for building it, was appointed.

The committee will report at the next meeting of the association. It is probable that the home will be built at some place in the mountains of North Caro-

ELECTING NEW OFFICERS. The matter of electing new officers came up and resulted as follows:

For president, Doctors Stubblefield, of Nashville; G. F. S. Wright, of Georgetown, S. C.; R. K. Luckie, of Holly Springs, Miss., and Gordon White were nominated. Dr. Luckie and Dr. Stubblefield declined to run, and Dr. G. F. S. White, of South Carolina, was elected president on the first ballot.

Dr. R. K. Luckie, of Holly Springs, Miss., was elected first vice-president; W. H. Rich-ards, of Knoxville, second vice-president, and L. P. Dotterer, third vice-president.

Dr. B. R. Stubblefield, of Nashville, was re-elected corresponding secretary, and Dr. M. C. Marshall, of Little Rock, Arkansas, was reelected recording secretary. Dr. H. D. Beach, of Clarkesville, Tenn., was re-elected treasurer. Dr. V. E. Turner, of Raleigh, N. C., and

Dr. B. A. Muckinfuss, of Charleston, S. C., were elected members of the executive committee.

Chattanooga and Moorehead City were nominated as places for holding the next convention. Moorehead City received the largest number of votes and was declared the next place for holding the meeting.

The convention then adjourned until the 7th of August, 1891.

PRESIDENT J. P. AUSTIN Elected by the Fulton County Alliance-Mr. E. A. Donehoo Endorsed.

The Farmers' alliance met at Sandy Springs Friday in county convention for the purpose of electing efficers. Delegates from all the suballiances were pres-

The alliancemen present were in good spirits and hopeful for the future of their order. Malaria.

Nothing makes one feel so mean and incapacitated for work as a touch of malaria. How the bones ache. What chilly and lifeless sensations. What a poor appetite and what poor digestion. Here, James, run and get me some quinine; or stop, quinine deesn't just agree with me either. It makes my head feel like it would burst. It creates a buzzing sound in my ears. It impairs my digestion. It makes me feel dizzy. It gives nausea; and a physician once told me that quinine sometimes causes paralysis. No! you needn't get it. I won't take quinine. What is that? You say your mother takes Smith's Tonic Syrup when she has malaria, and that it always cures her, and that it also cured your brother of chills and fever. Well, get me a bottle of Smith's Tonic Syrup, and be quick. Come to think about it, I have read that this medicine has all the good effects of quinine and none of its evil nature. Strange I haven't tried it before.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

Robert Shepherd Arrested for Passing Bogus Checks Yesterday.

Detectives Bedford and Green arrested Robert

Detectives Bedford and Green arrested Robert Shepherd yesterday on a charge of forgery. Shepherd is a negro for whom the detectives have been on the lay for a good while back. He has been, so Detective Bedford states, carrying on a systematic forgery business for about two months. But always, until yesterday, he has played his gam; well and left no trace by which he could be run down.

The detectives have in their possession nine checks which Shepherd is charged with forging. They are for various sums, from $6 up to $60, and aggregating about $200.

Shepherd's plan was worked mostly among the keepers of small stores on the outskirts of the city. He would fix up his check, placing to it the signature of some well known house in town, and after making some small purchase, get a balance in cash. In several instances he merely asked to have one of the hogus checks cashed.

have one of the hogus checks cashed.

The check that finally brought Shepherd into the hands of the law, purported to have been drawn by Frank E. Block for $25. This Shepherd passed off on a man named Johnson. Johnson happened to be very well acquainted with Shep-herd, and no trouble was had in tracing him up when the fraudulency of the check was discov

Shepherd will be given a preliminary hearing

STUART'S

A TRUE KIDNEY TONIC.

No person can be healthy whose kidneys are sluggish and inactive.
The kidneys eliminate, strain out, the waste matter of the blood, and pass it from the system with the urine. In sickness, or in health, the waste matter of the body is poisonous in character, and unless promptly thrown off by the kldneys, the whole system becomes deranged and diseased, and often uremia appears, followed by coma and death.

Stuart's Gin and Buchu

is a specific for all kidney, bladder and other urinary troubles.

Thousands have been cured, why not you? I was nearly dead with kidney affections for six months, growing worse all the time. My case was hopeless. I was unable to get about but little. I tried everything without any benefit. I tried everything without any benefit.

I took three bottles of Stuert's Gin and Buchu, and was perfectly cured. I am now well and all right. I owe my life to Stuart's Gin and Buchu.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla The Best

Blood Medicine

So say Leading Physicians and Druggists, and their opinion is indorsed by thousands oured by it of Scrofula, Eczema, Erysipelas, and other diseases of the blood.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla has won its reputation by years of valuable service to the community. R is the best."—R. S. Lang, Druggist, 212 Merrimack st., Lowell, Mass.
Dr. W. P. Wright, Paw Paw Ford, Tenn., says: "In my practice, I invariably pre-scribe Ayer's Sarsaparilla for chronic dis-certifies: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla has always been a great seller. My customers think there is no blood-purifier equal to it." "For many years I was afflicted with scrofulous running sores, which, at last be-came so bad the dectors advised amputating one of my legs to save my life. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla and soon saw an improvement. After using about two dozen bottles the sores were healed. I continue to take a few bottles of this medicine each year, for my blood, and am no longer trou-bled with sores. I have tried other reputed blood-purifiers, but none does so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—D. A. Robinson, Neal, Kansas.

A wrong rumor regarding our business has gained currency. We wish to print a pat denial to it.

Never have Eiseman Bros, even considered the idea of establishing a branch Tailoring Department at Athens, Ga.

Besides being erroneous, the report is ridiculous, and the persons who inspired and for personal motives continue to encourage its circulation, are guilty of grossly ignoring the ninth commandment. Such strategy has slender claims for success on moral grounds. We want to say, with special stress, that our sole business interest south of Washing-ton, D. C., is centered at 17 and 19 Whitehall street, and we shall vigorously oppose others enriching themselves, to our injury, upon the reputation we've won by methods clean and

The reduced Suits are moving in large squads at double quick. The unusual number of people on the streets yesterday with new clothes was due to this sale. Many a man has been made from $2 to $6 wealthier by reason of our resolve. The same advantages are good for today.

Here's added attractions. About two hundred more new and extra fine Suits go to the reduction counters at once. Every style a gem---fine in fabric, perfect in finish, graceful in form. Each one a trophy; durability without, fineness within and cheapness of price plain. Better catch 'em early. They'll be slipping out fast.

Do you realize that you may save a third of our former popular prices on every purchase of Boys' Suits? It's a fact worth not forgetting. Not a shallow or shriveled assortment that hints of disappointment and creates irritation, but a full, fresh, bright variety.

Can you wonder that with such facilities our business is daily growing greater?

We keep no shoddy stuff. You may read this, and wender why we propose to sell goods so low and without a profit. We will tell you. By getting rid of our present stock at cash prices, without a profit, it furnishes us money to go in the market and buy goods at a large discount, and during the summer we shall be content to hedge on our fall and winter stock at lowest prices, by selling goods at cost now. This is our reason. This is our present policy. If you want the best goods at cost, now is the time to get them. If you save 25 per cent on your goods, by buying now, we think you have made something. Examine our goods, compare our prices, and if anybody can beat us, then we are satisfied to lose you; but be sure, when you buy, that you are getting the best goods for the lowest prices.
